HAZEL RAVAGES 8 STATES, KILLING 58 City Tavern Owner Robbed Of $150

Stolen Auto, Found Here, Believed Clue

City Police Holding Corwin St. Youth For Questioning

A masked youth, described as in his late teens, rose up out of the back seat of a car to rob a S. Washington St. tavern owner of approximately $150 early Saturday morning.

Carl Snyder, who operates Carle's Place, had just closed the establishment and climbed into his car at 12:20 a. m. when the robbery took place.

Snyder told police the robber said:

"Carl, lay down in the front seat. Don't turn around. And give me the money."

Snyder said he reached into his pocket and gave the man a fistful of $5 bills. Although he caught only a quick glimpse of the man, Snyder described him as 15 to 19 years old and wearing a mask. "I will recognize his voice in court," Snyder added.

At approximately 1:10 a. m., police received a call that smoke was coming from a car parked in front of 346 Logan St. The report added that a "teen-age boy" had run away from the car.

The city fire department answered the call, as did city police. Sheriff's deputies, in the area because of the robbery report, were also on hand.

A quick check with Columbus revealed the car had been stolen from London Mayor E. P. Spear-maker.

SHORTLY AFTER, a "dragnet" was organized. Two city police cruisers, two sheriff's department cars and a State Patrol car combined to comb the entire area. A freight train, ready to pull out for Chillicothe, was halted and searched. Railroad men were alerted as was the local taxi cab company.

In addition, tavern owners had been notified to be on the lookout (Continued on Page Two)

Nationalist Air Boss Sees Invasion Near

TAIPEH, Formosa (AP)—Gen. Wang Shu-Ming, boss of Nationalist China's air force, thinks the Chinese Reds are getting ready to invade Formosa. The Nationalists, he declares, cannot drop their guard for a moment.

Wang, known as "Tiger" although he looks more like a bulldog, sidestepped the controversial issue of Nationalist attacks on the mainland in an interview. But his real feeling is obvious. He thinks the Reds intend to invade and that his air force ought to be smashing anything that looks like a buildup. The idea of holding his punch until an invasion is underway does not appeal, although he did not say so in so many words.

"I don't know when they're coming, but they're coming," Wang said. "We're keeping our small air force ready all around the clock. It's not easy to watch a thousand miles of coast, but we're doing our best."

Wang yearns for the day when his pilots will have more planes, particularly F86 jets which are a match for the Communist MIG15 jets. He now has F84s, plus World War II bombers and fighters.

Ike Putting Defense Agency In Politics, Adlai Charges

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M. (AP)—Adlai Stevenson says the Eisenhower administration has "abandoned the sound and good tradition of no politics in the Defense Department" by allowing Secretary of Defense Wilson to function as a Republican campaigner.

Speaking at a Democratic rally last night, Stevenson questioned the "propriety" of Wilson's participation in the fight for control of Congress.

The Democrats' 1952 presidential candidate said Wilson's "campaign job as I understand it is to go around to industrial areas like Detroit and Chicago where there are large defense contracts and speak to the big industrialists and the rich beneficiaries of Republican tax reduction—at $100 a plate for the Republican campaign."

Jenner Says U.S. Leaders 'Traitors'

CINCINNATI (AP)—Those who are digging America's grave, says Sen. William E. Jenner, are trusted leaders in high position who want to protect their vested interests more than they want to root out communism.

"I say they are traitors," the Indiana Republican told more than 500 persons attending a dinner here last night. "The Communists could never have won the power they now wield over our country if it were not for the collaborators, the respectable men and women, in our executive agencies, in Congress, in the parties, in business and labor and communications, who were willing to 'go along' with the Communists because it paid them well."

Canada, U.S. Plan Testing Nike Missile In Far North

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States and Canada, working together with the American weapon, are going to determine how well the Nike guided missile system for anti-aircraft defense works in the bitter cold of the Arctic.

The powerful, faster-than-sound Nike has been tested so far only in Texas.

Washington and Ottawa announced last night that cold weather trials of the missile and its intricate guidance system will be made during January and February at Ft. Churchill, a post on the west coast of Hudson Bay where the thermometer sometimes drops to 50 degrees below zero.

Canadian crews, who trained last summer at Ft. Bliss, Tex., will operate the Nike at the Canadian site with U. S. Army technicians participating.

The Army boasts the Nike can cope with any type plane now flying. But the weapon has yet to be tried out in the subzero tempera-

Hazel Gives Ohio Valley Quick Flood

Pittsburgh Gets 6-Inch Rainfall In 12 Hours As Big Blow Passes

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Hurricane Hazel is blamed for Ohio River Valley floods brought on by a six inch fall of rain in 12 hours yesterday.

Waters from numerous tiny creeks and tributaries poured into the rising Allegheny and Monongahela Rivers which merge in Pittsburgh to become the Ohio River. A 30-foot crest is predicted for the steel city late today.

Even at 30-feet, five above flood stage, little damage would be done here, officials said.

By contrast, in nearby Derry, the reservoir overflowed and covered the site of a water main break, leaving the town's 8,000 and covered the site of a water main break, leaving the town's 8,000 residents without a water supply.

Turtle Creek in Wilmerding, normally of wading depth, spread to a width of 300 feet. A town official described it as the "worst flood in years that I can remember."

POLICE, FIREMEN and civil defense workers plodded through the swirling waters and evacuated persons from 150 homes.

In the town of Turtle Creek 400 to 500 persons were evacuated. Four families were rescued not only from the flood but also from a fire that broke out in a two-story apartment house.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has tentatively agreed to contract terms designed to guarantee the Dixon-Yates power group a nine per cent tax-free profit on its investment, with no specified profit ceiling, if it builds a new plant near the Tennessee Valley.

This was revealed today by a study of the controversial and still-under-wraps ninth draft of the proposed contract, which the Atomic Energy Commission has approved but not yet signed.

Hurricane Rips Into Canada, May Die There

Mighty Tropical Blow Labeled As Worst Of Century For Continent

NEW YORK (AP)—Hurricane Hazel, exacting a death toll of at least 58 while ravaging an eight-state area, caused hundreds of families in the upper Ohio River Valley to flee their homes today as rivers rose to near flood stage.

And Hazel is not "dead" yet. She was last reported roaring into Canada, but was expected to blow herself out around Hudson's Bay, a far distance from where she was born off South America.

This morning, Hazel ripped into the Canadian province of Ontario leaving four known dead and millions in damage.

Like the rest of areas which felt Hazel's wrath, the Pittsburgh section reported untold millions of dollars in property damage. No deaths or injuries were known immediately.

Termed one of the worst continental storms of the century, and spawned 11 days ago in the Windward Islands about 1,600 miles east-southeast of Miami, Hazel's 130 mph center devastated the island of Haiti Tuesday, leaving more than 100 dead there.

SHE SMASHED northwest to bash the U. S. mainland early yesterday. Her hurricane winds were "calmed" to gale force by Pennsylvania's Allegheny Mountains, but she picked up enough punch to disrupt upper New York state and take five lives in the area.

Known fatalities by states: New York 8, Virginia 7, Pennsylvania 7, Maryland 6, North Carolina 6, Delaware 4, New Jersey 4, Washington, D. C., 3, and Massachusetts 1.

Although her outer winds merely "brushed" the New England area, Hazel's sprawling might still was making itself felt, with the coastal regions girding against the threat of abnormally high tides.

College Chief Denies Boost For Solon

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—President A. Ray Olpin of the University of Utah says he has talked with Congressman Stringfellow (R-Utah) no more than twice in his life and does not recall recommending him for a perilous mission behind German lines.

Stringfellow, whose reputation as a World War II hero has been questioned by the unofficial Army Times, has been quoted in print as saying Dr. Olpin recommended him for such a mission in 1943.

At that time Olpin was a member of the faculty of Ohio State University and Stringfellow was with an Army special training group at Ohio State.

The congressman, in an article published last Jan. 24, quoted Olpin as telling him after the war: "I picked you for your German mission after that interview at Columbus."

The university president says he was a consultant to the Office of Strategic Services during the war, but it was in connection with the Orient. As for the statement attributed to him in the Jan. 24 article, he says:

"I never said that—that's one thing I'm sure of."

The Army Times, in an article published Thursday, questioned whether Stringfellow was "the heroic and lone survivor of an OSS cloak-and-dagger operation" or "a private first class who served overseas less than one month but never saw combat."

BALTIMORE (AP)—Judge Herman M. Moser has signed an order, believed one of the first of its kind in the state, directing that a woman inmate of a mental hospital undergo a sterilization operation.

Judge Moser signed the order after medical experts at the Springfield State Hospital and at the Phipps Clinic of Johns Hopkins Hospital urged the operation. Evidence produced in court showed the woman has had five children in all, and that she suffered mental disturbances after each childbirth.

Stevenson said he wanted to "remind our Republican friends" that the Defense Department, like the State Department, was "out of politics when the Democrats were in power" and he added:

"I SHOULD have thought President Eisenhower, after a lifetime in the service, might have seen some virtue in continuing that practice."

But, said Stevenson, "it is quite clear" neither Eisenhower nor Wilson "seem the least bit sensitive about the propriety of the secretary of defense participating in a political campaign."

Wilson returned to the capital Thursday night saying he hoped he was through with campaign speeches. During a brief political excursion he had set off a storm by a remark he made about bird dogs in Detroit last Monday.

Some Democrats, labor union leaders and even some fellow Republicans criticized Wilson when he compared the qualities of bird dogs and kennel dogs while discussing unemployment.

The defense secretary later apologized publicly for what he termed "inept remarks," but claimed his meaning had been distorted by "our leftwing opponents."

Alluding to this now widely quoted remark, Stevenson said "we do know that it is not unusual for Republican leaders to talk and think about unemployment as a statistic, with so many people out of work, so many homes chilled with anxiety."

The Army boasts the Nike can cope with any type plane now flying. But the weapon has yet to be tried out in the subzero tempera-

The Army also wants to know how efficiently Nike battery crews can operate the complex controls and electronic guidance levers and buttons of the Nike battery when metal is freezing cold and fingers are sheathed in mittens.

In talking about the formal announcement of the Nike test, Pentagon research and development officials also disclosed that another new weapon of the atomic age, the 280 mm cannon, had been tested last winter at Ft. Churchill.

The cannon can fire atomic shells, but the Churchill tests used only conventional explosive ammunition, they said. Ft. Churchill contains an artillery range and a vast maneuver area which have been used extensively during recent years by joint Canadian-American units for Arctic training and tests.

Exchangers Meet

MANSFIELD (AP)—Some 300 members of the Exchange Club, a service organization, are expected here today for a two-day Ohio fall conference. A series of forums will be the major business tomorrow.

Youghiogheny River flooded the business district to a depth of five feet. At least a hundred homes were evacuated.

A Weather Bureau spokesman in Pittsburgh said:

"I don't think we ever had anything like this before. I mean it was so fast."

With the Ohio River nearly six feet higher than its normal stage it looked as though there were going to be at least some wet basements between Steubenville and East Liverpool, Ohio, on the other side of the river.

The pool stage or normal level of the river at Pittsburgh where it is formed by the Monongahela and Allegheny Rivers is about 17 feet.

In the wake of heavy rainstorms on both the Ohio and Pennsylvania sides of the Ohio River, the level rose to 18.8 feet at 10:30 last night; to 20.2 at 1 a. m. today, and to 22.9 at 4 a. m.

THE WEATHER Bureau said the river would reach the flood stage of 25 feet by noon and hits peak of about 30 feet by 4 p. m.

If it reaches 30 feet at Pittsburgh, observers said, that probably would mean 40 to 42 feet at East Liverpool, where the flood stage is 32 feet. That would hit several hundred homes between Steubenville and East Liverpool.

Ohio already had a taste of flood conditions. It started raining in northeastern Ohio about 1:30 a. m., yesterday and it kept right on until 1:30 a. m. today. A record 5.31 inches of rain flooded 500 homes in Youngstown. Crab Creek in one section of the city overflowed forcing evacuation of 10 persons from homes.

In Cleveland, three inches of rain forced 25 families to leave their homes in the low-lying Eastlake area near the Chagrin River. The flood stage there is 11 feet. It hit 14 last night and is expected to rise another 8 before leveling off.

British Strike Has Officials Very Anxious

LONDON (AP)—Anxious Britons braced today for a return to the homefront "austerity" of World War II as London's dock strike threatened food and fuel supplies.

At the same time, a spreading wildcat bus strike knocked more than half the teeming capital's double-decker buses off the streets, bringing traffic chaos.

Faced with a grim warning from the government, millions of housewives prepared to stock up their larders.

A Ministry of Labor statement issued after an emergency Cabinet meeting last night said the walkout of 24,000 London dockers "is having a serious effect on the country's export trade, is endangering food supplies and threatened to cause unemployment in other industries."

Britain lives by food imported from abroad. A third of that food, and the trade that pays for it, is channeled through the port here.

Prime Minister Churchill, wrestling with the gravest labor crisis since he returned to office three years ago, canceled his usual weekend in the country to stay on hand in the capital.

Neither strike showed any signs of a break.

He had bought new batteries for his hearing aid and forgot to adjust the volume. A slamming door sounded to him like a safe-cracker's blast.

into effect but does not allow the Senate-House group to veto it or change its terms.

The disputed plan, a center of the public-vs.-private power controversy, calls for the Dixon-Yates private power group to build a $107 million steam plant at West Memphis, Ark.

The plant would send electricity through Tennessee Valley Authority public power lines to replace some TVA power used by AEC.

The Dixon-Yates group, composed of Middle South Utilities, Inc., and the Southern Co., would invest $54 million. The remaining amount would be borrowed by Dixon-Yates from private sources at about 3½ per cent interest and this interest cost, the contract shows, would be paid by AEC as part of Dixon-Yates' charges.

Rep. W. Sterling Cole (R-NY), chairman of the Atomic Committee, indicated today the AEC soon may make the proposed contract public. The AEC approved it early this month but the terms have not been officially disclosed, despite repeated demands for their disclosure by critics of the plan.

Judge Heard, who barred news-men from the hearing and ordered a blackout on pictures of the boy, said he was "seriously thinking of releasing him," but first would have to study a tape recording of the testimony. A decision is expected next week.

Tippie, part collie, part bound dog, part mostly citizen of the world, was reunited with his young master at the hearing, then taken to a veterinarian by Atty. Murphy Blackwell, who volunteered his services in defense of the boy.

The sad-eyed, spindle - shanked dog sat quietly at the boy's feet while 40 witnesses, including a Sunday school teacher, a grocery clerk and a man who took Joey fishing on Saturdays, attested to the good character of both.

Joey was led into the courtroom by A. L. Swanson, superintendent of the reform school.

Hurricane Rips Into Canada, May Die There

Mighty Tropical Blow Labeled As Worst Of Century For Continent

NEW YORK (AP)—Hurricane Hazel, exacting a death toll of at least 58 while ravaging an eight-state area, caused hundreds of families in the upper Ohio River Valley to flee their homes today as rivers rose to near flood stage.

And Hazel is not "dead" yet. She was last reported roaring into Canada, but was expected to blow herself out around Hudson's Bay, a far distance from where she was born off South America.

This morning, Hazel ripped into the Canadian province of Ontario leaving four known dead and millions in damage.

Like the rest of areas which felt Hazel's wrath, the Pittsburgh section reported untold millions of dollars in property damage. No deaths or injuries were known immediately.

Termed one of the worst continental storms of the century, and spawned 11 days ago in the Windward Islands about 1,600 miles east-southeast of Miami, Hazel's 130 mph center devastated the island of Haiti Tuesday, leaving more than 100 dead there.

SHE SMASHED northwest to bash the U. S. mainland early yesterday. Her hurricane winds were "calmed" to gale force by Pennsylvania's Allegheny Mountains, but she picked up enough punch to disrupt upper New York state and take five lives in the area.

Known fatalities by states: New York 8, Virginia 7, Pennsylvania 7, Maryland 6, North Carolina 6, Delaware 4, New Jersey 4, Washington, D. C., 3, and Massachusetts 1.

Although her outer winds merely "brushed" the New England area, Hazel's sprawling might still was making itself felt, with the coastal regions girding against the threat of abnormally high tides.

College Chief Denies Boost For Solon

SALT LAKE CITY (AP)—President A. Ray Olpin of the University of Utah says he has talked with Congressman Stringfellow (R-Utah) no more than twice in his life and does not recall recommending him for a perilous mission behind German lines.

Stringfellow, whose reputation as a World War II hero has been questioned by the unofficial Army Times, has been quoted in print as saying Dr. Olpin recommended him for such a mission in 1943.

At that time Olpin was a member of the faculty of Ohio State University and Stringfellow was with an Army special training group at Ohio State.

The congressman, in an article published last Jan. 24, quoted Olpin as telling him after the war: "I picked you for your German mission after that interview at Columbus."

The university president says he was a consultant to the Office of Strategic Services during the war, but it was in connection with the Orient. As for the statement attributed to him in the Jan. 24 article, he says:

"I never said that—that's one thing I'm sure of."

The Army Times, in an article published Thursday, questioned whether Stringfellow was "the heroic and lone survivor of an OSS cloak-and-dagger operation" or "a private first class who served overseas less than one month but never saw combat."

Sterilization Ordered By Judge

BALTIMORE (AP)—Judge Herman M. Moser has signed an order, believed one of the first of its kind in the state, directing that a woman inmate of a mental hospital undergo a sterilization operation.

Judge Moser signed the order after medical experts at the Springfield State Hospital and at the Phipps Clinic of Johns Hopkins Hospital urged the operation.

Nuclear Engines For Ships Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has announced two projects to develop nuclear engines for "large naval vessels."

Spokesmen for the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department said they did not know whether this means specifically nuclear engines for aircraft carriers. The Navy has expressed vital interest in atom power in that class.

The joint announcement said research and development work for large ship propulsion has been assigned to Westinghouse Electric Corp. with $1,250,000 authorized for the current fiscal year.

PUCO Pondering Bell Rate Case

COLUMBUS (AP)—A decision on Ohio Bell Telephone Co.'s bid for a rate increase of more than $8 million will come "in due time," says the chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. The three-member commission yesterday heard final arguments in the case.

Chairman Robert L. Moulton would give no indications of when a decision might be expected. Winding up the arguments for 12 protesting cities, Richard Gantz, Akron's assistant law director urged the commission to cut instead of increase bell rates.

70 Mph. Turnpike Speed Is Urged

COLUMBUS (AP)—Both trucks and autos on the Northern Ohio Turnpike will be held to a uniform top speed of 70 mph if regulations recommended by the commission's executive director are approved. The pike is to open next October. Believing a uniform top speed will promote safety, Executive Director Robert S. Beightler yesterday handed the commission the suggested traffic regulations for commissioners' approval. The recommendations would prohibit U-turns and ban hitchhikers, bicycles, and pedestrians from the 241-mile toll road.

World Famous Foster Mother Has Auditioned 300,000 Children

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Any mother who has survived the tense ordeal of preparing her moppet for a grammar school pageant might regard Mrs. Alice Viola Clements with awe. For Mrs. Clements, the show world's most durable foster mother, has auditioned some 300,000 talented and not so talented children in a quarter of a century.

More than 12,000 kids have appeared on "Auntie Alice's" famous "Children's Hour" Sunday program here. The program, which recently celebrated its silver anniversary, has been a springboard for many now famous entertainers.

"So far as we've been able to find," said Mrs. Clements, "it's the oldest continuous show in radio. It has gone on for some 1,300 consecutive weeks."

It is now only a part-time task for busy, warm-hearted Mrs. Clements, who was once a Broadway dancer herself. Five years ago, after the death of her husband, she took over the operation of his Philadelphia advertising agency. Three days a week she commutes here, where she holds auditions and writes, directs and produces her show. She loves to work with children, handles them easily with a firm knowing kindness.

"I had twins, but lost them as babies," she said, quietly. "Since then, I've learned to be fond of other people's children."

Each year she contributes to the education of a number of talented children whose parents can't afford to give them the training they need.

"I've always been interested in show business," she said. "I was the youngest of seven children in a Pennsylvania Dutch family. My father had paid $400 for a piano, and none of the older children cared to play it."

"When I came along, I had to. My thrifty father simply wasn't going to let that piano go to waste. I gave my first concert debut at 8, and I wore panties made of flour sacks with the name of the company printed on them."

"As I sat down to the piano, everybody in the audience started laughing. In flipping back my starched dress, I had given a free ad to the flour company." Each night now when Mrs. Clements looks at television her heart is warmed by the sight of at least 6 to 8 performers who got their start on her program.

"Not all are stars," she said, "but they are making a living." Among the better known graduates of her children's hour are Ezra Stone, Robert Q. Lewis, Arnold Stang, Joan Roberts, Eileen Barton and Roberta Peters.

What has she learned from 25 years of working with children? "Well, the most important thing is—to treat them as adults," she said. "Children respond to reason at least as well as grown ups and they're more obedient."

"The parents often are more of a problem than the children. They never seem to be satisfied if a child has one talent. They want to push the child into everything, or claim he can do anything."

One father offered Mrs. Clements a new car if she'd put his child on her show. A jeweler offered her an expensive watch on the same basis.

"I had to turn them both down," she laughed. "The children get on the show only by their own talents. We don't audition their parents' pocketbooks."

Mrs. Clements believes that encouraging children to develop their talents helps cut down juvenile delinquency.

"A child trying to become good in anything simply doesn't have time to get into trouble," she said.

She has found that child ventriloquists usually are the most highly intelligent of young performers, young comics the most mischievous.

"It's hard to hold their attention; they are always trying to make me laugh," she said. "But I suppose I really love them best of all. I always dreamed of being a comedienne, but I wasn't."

That is the key to "Auntie Alice's" success. She shares the yearning behind every child's most impossible dream, and does what she can to help it come true.

Grandpa Given Ride By Tiny Grandson

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—Grandpa James K. Green got the ride of his life with 2-year-old Timothy Davis.

Green's daughter, Mrs. Helen Davis, left her son Timothy in the front seat of her auto with her father, whose injured foot was in a cast. Timmy sat down on the accelerator and turned on the ignition. The car roared away in low gear, leaped a curb, tore out the front porch of a house, careened next door where Mrs. Marion Copeland fainted as it whizzed by her.

Green finally slammed on the break with his hand.

Mrs. Copeland was the only casualty, but Grandpa Green says: "Next time the kid stays in the back seat."

The automatic stay was granted when counsel for Meyer filed notice of appeal.

Meyer is under death sentence for the slaying of his wife, Velvia, 27, last Feb. 15, during a domestic quarrel.

EDISON'S HOME STILL LIT BY GAS 75 YEARS AFTER ELECTRIC LAMP INVENTION

This gas-lit street lamp burns nightly at gateway to Edison estate in Llewellyn Park, East Orange, N. J.

By JERRY KLEIN

Central Press Correspondent

WEST ORANGE, N. J.—This Oct. 21 will be the 75th anniversary of Thomas A. Edison's electric lamp and to mark the occasion the electrical industry is spending thousands of dollars in a gala Diamond Jubilee of Light Celebration.

Edison will be honored virtually everywhere by brightly shining electric lights—everywhere except in his own home town. For although Edison invented his lamp in 1879, streets in the Llewellyn Park section of West Orange—where the inventor lived for 45 years—still are lit by old-fashioned gas lamps!

Edison's invention seemed to insure the downfall of the gas mantle, but almost one hundred of them continue to glow every night near the home of the great scientist.

It was 10 years before the electric lamp was invented that young Edison got his first patent—on a stock market ticker. Over the next decade, he helped Christopher L. Sholes to perfect the typewriter, besides inventing telegraph systems, paraffin paper, the microphone and the phonograph.

THEN, on Oct. 21, 1879, Edison achieved the first practical incandescent lamp. On New Year's Eve, he demonstrated the lights outside his New Jersey neighbors, who marveled at how much brighter the electric bulbs were compared with the gas models. In 1880 Edison began to manufacture the lamps commercially in nearby Menlo Park.

Edison may have been born in Milan, O., but West Orange is proud to point out that he lived here for most of his 84 years. This town is the home of the Thomas Alva Edison foundation and of the Edison museum, which contains samples of the first electric lamp made with filaments of bamboo and carbonized paper. The streets of West Orange are lit by electricity, too—except for the inventor's own Llewellyn Park area.

Only once a year do Edison's former neighbors relent and allow an electric light to shine in their streets. This happens each Feb. 11, Edison's birthday. On that day, they turn on an electric bulb to illuminate the bronze plaque.

AS FOR the chances of Llewellyn Park's getting into the swing of things and switching to electric, there's not a remote possibility. "We don't want electric street lights," says Henry T. Stetson, chairman of the board of managers

Ike Says GOP Helps Assure Ag Prosperity

In Bid For Farm Vote, President Tells 'Bold' Steps Already Taken

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—President Eisenhower bid for the nation's farm vote last night, saying election of a Republican Congress will help assure American farmers of what he called "a foundation of enduring prosperity."

Speaking to a capacity crowd of 15,000 at Butler University, the President jabbed at the Truman administration for what he termed the farmers' "serious loss in buying power" in 1951-52.

And, in a separate speech at a smaller rally of GOP colleagues, he sounded a challenge to Republicans to spur "our horses and to get going" in the party's drive to maintain control of Congress in the Nov. 2 elections.

Eisenhower talked at length about a long list of "bold, progressive steps" he said were taken by the 83rd Congress to improve the farmer's lot.

In a thrust at the Truman administration, he said:

"IN THE TWO years before this (Eisenhower) administration took office, our farmers suffered a serious loss in buying power."

"In 1947, 930 bushels of wheat would buy a combine. By the end of 1952, it took 1,600 bushels, three-fourths more."

Eisenhower noted that the administration's new farm program provided for government price support of basic commodities. But nowhere in his address did he make any mention of the most controversial feature of the program—the provision for shifting from rigid 90 per cent of parity support to a system of flexible prices.

Eisenhower stopped over in the Indiana capital in the midst of the Farm Belt on his way back to hurricane-lashed Washington from Denver, where he ended an eight-week work and play vacation yesterday.

His private plane landed at Washington National Airport early today, several hours after the hurricane had swept north.

His major address last night marked another step in his personal campaign to swing voters in to the Republican column this fall.

During the first 21 months of his administration, he said, "we have gone far toward building for our agriculture a foundation of enduring prosperity, in an America at last at peace."

HE SAID THERE never had been more constructive farm legislation than that passed by the GOP-controlled 83rd Congress, and he blamed "the old farm law" for a "steady decline in farmers' buying power."

On the speakers platform were Secretary of Agriculture Benson, whom he warmly praised, and Republican candidates from the Farm Belt. There had been reports from Washington that GOP leaders counseled against having Benson on the platform, presumably because of some Republican opposition to the administration's controversial farm program.

Benson spoke briefly ahead of Eisenhower and said the nation's farmers never had a better friend in the White House.

Hurricane Slows Newspaper's Run

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. (AP)—The Doylestown Intelligencer put out its 150th anniversary edition today and because of Hurricane Hazel, much of the printing operation was the same as that employed 150 years ago.

Newsman on the old Bucks County newspaper had to work 6½ hours by candlelight and kerosene lamps last night to get out the special 52-page edition.

The hurricane brought about a power failure to Bucks County.

Page forms were prepared by hand as were all other operations except the actual printing. Power was restored at 1:05 a. m. today in time to roll the presses.

flown from Block Island, off Rhode Island to Eastport, Me.

The big blow grazed the New York metropolitan area, but still managed to whip up wind gusts of more than 100 mph.

Hazel's 130 mph center hit the mainland about 40 miles southeast of Myrtle Beach, a resort community halfway up the South Carolina coast. Thousands of beach homes were torn to splinters and many homes were washed away.

LEAVING THE debris - choked Carolinas, the hurricane hurled into Virginia, cutting a 200-mile swath through the central part of the state, doing damage in the millions and causing many injuries.

At Norfolk, the tug Indian towing five barges sank in the James River. One crewman died, three are missing.

The hurricane blacked out power service along the eastern shore from the Virginia Capes to southern Delaware, and for scattered sections around Baltimore and central Maryland. Floods in Maryland made scores homeless.

Everywhere Hazel went, down went trees and power lines.

The storm tore loose from its reinforced moorings the historic U. S. Naval Academy training ship, the Reina Mercedes, and dragged it out in the Severn River with more than 50 aboard. The men stayed aboard, they were safer there than ashore.

In the nation's capital, a 74-year-old woman was killed when high winds swept her into the path of a truck as she crossed a street, and a mother died of a heart attack worrying about her young son being caught in the storm.

In every community along the hurricane's path the Red Cross, police and firemen, civil defense workers, ordinary citizens, and local officials pitched in to help.

Nuclear Engines For Ships Eyed

WASHINGTON — The United States has announced two projects to develop nuclear engines for "large naval vessels."

Spokesmen for the Atomic Energy Commission and the Defense Department said they did not know whether this means specifically nuclear engines for aircraft carriers. The Navy has expressed vital interest in atom power in that class. The joint announcement said research and development work for large ship propulsion has been assigned to Westinghouse Electric Corp. with $1,250,000 authorized for the current fiscal year.

PUCO Pondering Bell Rate Case

COLUMBUS — A decision on Ohio Bell Telephone Co.'s bid for a rate increase of more than $8 million will come "in due time," says the chairman of the Public Utilities Commission of Ohio. The three-member commission yesterday heard final arguments in the case.

Chairman Robert L. Moulton would give no indications of when a decision might be expected. Winding up the arguments for 12 protesting cities, Richard Gantz, Akron's assistant law director urged the commission to cut instead of increase bell rates.

70 Mph. Turnpike Speed Is Urged

COLUMBUS — Both trucks and autos on the Northern Ohio Turnpike will be held to a uniform top speed of 70 mph if regulations recommended by the commission's executive director are approved. The pike is to open next October.

Believing a uniform top speed will promote safety, Executive Director Robert S. Beightler yesterday handed the commission the suggested traffic regulations for commissioners' approval.

The recommendations would prohibit U-turns and ban hitchhikers, bicycles, and pedestrians from the 241-mile toll road.

World Famous Foster Mother Has Auditioned 300,000 Children

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK — Any mother who has survived the tense ordeal of preparing her moppet for a grammar school pageant might regard Mrs. Alice Viola Clements with awe.

For Mrs. Clements, the show world's most durable foster mother, has auditioned some 300,000 talented and not so talented children in a quarter of a century.

More than 12,000 kids have appeared on "Auntie Alice's" famous "Children's Hour" Sunday program here. The program, which recently celebrated its silver anniversary, has been a springboard for many now famous entertainers.

"So far as we've been able to find," said Mrs. Clements, "it's the oldest continuous show in radio. It has gone on for some 1,300 consecutive weeks."

It is now only a parttime task for busy, warm-hearted Mrs. Clements, who was once a Broadway dancer herself. Five years ago, after the death of her husband, she took over the operation of his Philadelphia advertising agency. Three days a week she commutes here, where she holds auditions and writes, directs and produces her show.

She loves to work with children, handles them easily with a firm knowing kindness.

"I had twins, but lost them as babies," she said, quietly. "Since then, I've learned to be fond of other people's children."

Each year she contributes to the education of a number of talented children whose parents can't afford to give them the training they need.

"I've always been interested in show business," she said. "I was the youngest of seven children in a Pennsylvania Dutch family. My father had paid $400 for a piano, and none of the older children cared to play it."

"When I came along, I had to. My thrifty father simply wasn't going to let that piano go to waste. I gave my first concert debut at 8, and I wore panties made of flour sacks with the name of the company printed on them."

"As I sat down to the piano, everybody in the audience started laughing. In flipping back my starched dress, I had given a free ad to the flour company."

Each night now when Mrs. Clements looks at television her heart is warmed by the sight of at least 6 to 8 performers who got their start on her program.

"Not all are stars," she said, "but they are making a living." Among the better known graduates of her children's hour are Ezra Stone, Robert Q. Lewis, Arnold Stang, Joan Roberts, Eileen Barton and Roberta Peters.

What has she learned from 25 years of working with children? "Well, the most important thing is—to treat them as adults," she said. "Children respond to reason at least as well as grown ups and they're more obedient."

"The parents often are more of a problem than the children. They never seem to be satisfied if a child has one talent. They want to push the child into everything, or claim he can do anything."

One father offered Mrs. Clements a new car if she'd put his child on her show. A jeweler offered her an expensive watch on the same basis.

"I had to turn them both down," she laughed. "The children get on the show only by their own talents. We don't audition their parents' pocketbooks."

Mrs. Clements believes that encouraging children to develop their talents helps cut down juvenile delinquency.

"A child trying to become good in anything simply doesn't have time to get into trouble," she said.

She has found that child ventriloquists usually are the most highly intelligent of young performers, young comics the most mischievous.

That is the key to "Auntie Alice's" success. She shares the yearning behind every child's most impossible dream, and does what she can to help it come true.

EDISON'S HOME STILL LIT BY GAS 75 YEARS AFTER ELECTRIC LAMP INVENTION

This gas-lit street lamp burns nightly at gateway to Edison estate in Llewellyn Park, East Orange, N. J.

By JERRY KLEIN
Central Press Correspondent

WEST ORANGE, N. J.—This Oct. 21 will be the 75th anniversary of Thomas A. Edison's electric lamp and to mark the occasion the electrical industry is spending thousands of dollars in a gala Diamond Jubilee of Light Celebration.

Edison will be honored virtually everywhere by brightly shining electric lights—everywhere except in his own home town. For although Edison invented his lamp in 1879, streets in the Llewellyn Park section of West Orange—where the inventor lived for 45 years—still are lit by old-fashioned gas lamps!

Edison's invention seemed to insure the downfall of the gas mantle, but almost one hundred of them continue to glow every night near the home of the great scientist.

It was 10 years before the electric lamp was invented that young Edison got his first patent—on a stock market ticker. Over the next decade, he helped Christopher L. Sholes to perfect the typewriter, besides inventing telegraph systems, paraffin paper, the microphone and the phonograph.

THEN, on Oct. 21, 1879, Edison achieved the first practical incandescent lamp. On New Year's Eve, he demonstrated the lights out doors to his New Jersey neighbors, who marveled at how much brighter the electric bulbs were compared with the gas models. In 1880 Edison began to manufacture the lamps commercially in nearby Menlo Park.

Edison may have been born in Milan, O., but West Orange is proud to point out that he lived here for most of his 84 years. The town is the home of the Thomas Alva Edison foundation and of the Edison museum, which contains samples of the first electric lamp made with filaments of bamboo and carbonized paper. The streets of West Orange are lit by electricity, too—except for the inventor's own Llewellyn Park area.

AS FOR the chances of Llewellyn Park's getting into the swing of things and switching to electric, there's not a remote possibility. "We don't want electric street lights," says Henry T. Stetson, chairman of the board of managers of the Llewellyn Park association.

"We have enough overhead wires as it is."

The old gas mantles are tended by the Welsbach Street Lighting corporation of New York, which also makes electric traffic signals. The company doesn't have to send out lamp-lighters every evening to turn the lights on. However, it does send out men who go from lamp to lamp, climb a ladder and wind the time clock which automatically turns each gas light off and on.

THE COMPANY's local superintendent, Frank P. Bell, says the lamps near Edison's home have been burning gas since 1916. Before that, naphtha was burned in the same street fixtures.

Certainly, Llewellyn Park's preference for gas lamps reflects no animosity for its favorite son. Just inside the boundary of the neighborhood is a boulder with a bronze plaque on it. By gas light, you can read this inscription:

"1847-1947. Commemorating the centennial of Thomas Alva Edison, a resident of Llewellyn Park and inspiration to men and a benefactor to all. Erected by his neighbors and friends."

Only once a year do Edison's former neighbors relent and allow an electric light to shine in their streets. This happens each Feb. 11, Edison's birthday. On that day, they turn on an electric bulb to illuminate the bronze plaque.

Grandpa Given Ride By Tiny Grandson

LONG BEACH, Calif. —Grandpa James K. Green got the ride of his life with 2-year-old Timothy Davis.

Green's daughter, Mrs. Helen Davis, left her son Timothy in the front seat of her auto with her father, whose injured foot was in a cast. Timmy sat down on the accelerator and turned on the ignition. The car roared away in low gear, leaped a curb, tore out the front porch of a house, careened next door where Mrs. Marion Copeland fainted as it whizzed by her.

Green finally slammed on the break with his hand.

Mrs. Copeland was the only casualty, but Grandpa Green says: "Next time the kid stays in the back seat."

Lancaster Slayer Is Granted Stay

COLUMBUS — The Ohio Supreme Court reported today an automatic stay of execution had been granted Benjamin E. Meyer, 24, of Lancaster, scheduled to die in the electric chair at Ohio Penitentiary next Thursday.

The automatic stay was granted when counsel for Meyer filed notice of appeal.

Meyer is under death sentence for the slaying of his wife, Velvia, 27, last Feb. 15, during a domestic quarrel.

Ike Says GOP Helps Assure Ag Prosperity

In Bid For Farm Vote, President Tells 'Bold' Steps Already Taken

INDIANAPOLIS — President Eisenhower bid for the nation's farm vote last night, saying election of a Republican Congress will help assure American farmers of what he called "a foundation of enduring prosperity."

Speaking to a capacity crowd of 15,000 at Butler University, the President jabbed at the Truman administration for what he termed the farmers' "serious loss in buying power" in 1951-52.

And, in a separate speech at a smaller rally of GOP colleagues, he sounded a challenge to Republicans to spur "our horses and to get going" in the party's drive to maintain control of Congress in the Nov. 2 elections.

Eisenhower talked at length about a long list of "bold, progressive steps" he said were taken by the 83rd Congress to improve the farmer's lot.

And in a thrust at the Truman administration, he said:

"IN THE TWO years before this ('Eisenhower) administration took office, our farmers suffered a serious loss in buying power."

"In 1947, 930 bushels of wheat would buy a combine. By the end of 1952, it took 1,600 bushels, three-fourths more."

Eisenhower noted that the administration's new farm program provides for government price support of basic commodities. But nowhere in his address did he make any mention of the most controversial feature of the program—the provision for shifting from rigid 90 per cent of parity support to a system of flexible prices.

Eisenhower stopped over in the Indiana capital in the midst of the Farm Belt on his way back to hurricane-lashed Washington from Denver, where he ended an eight-week work and play vacation yesterday.

His private plane landed at Washington National Airport early today, several hours after the hurricane had swept north.

His major address last night marked another step in his personal campaign to swing voters in to the Republican column this fall.

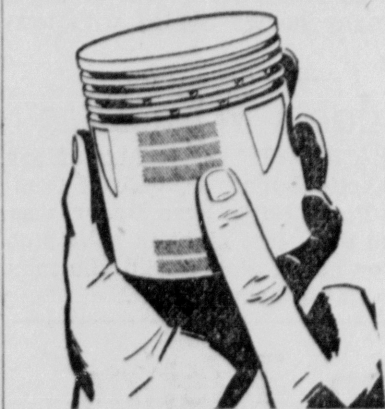

During the first 21 months of his administration, he said, "we have gone far toward building for our agriculture a foundation of enduring prosperity, in an America at last at peace."

HE SAID THERE never had been more constructive farm legislation than that passed by the GOP-controlled 83rd Congress, and he blamed "the old farm law" for a "steady decline in farmers' buying power."

On the speakers platform were Secretary of Agriculture Benson, whom he warmly praised, and Republican candidates from the Farm Belt. There had been reports from Washington that GOP leaders counseled against having Benson on the platform, presumably because of some Republican opposition to the administration's controversial farm program.

Benson spoke briefly ahead of Eisenhower and said the nation's farmers never had a better friend in the White House.

Hurricane Slows Newspaper's Run

DOYLESTOWN, Pa. — The Doylestown Intelligencer put out its 150th anniversary edition today and because of Hurricane Hazel, much of the printing operation was the same as that employed 150 years ago.

Newsmen on the old Bucks County newspaper had to work 6½ hours by candlelight and kerosene lamps last night to get out the special 52-page edition.

The hurricane brought about a power failure to Bucks County. Page forms were prepared by hand as were all other operations except the actual printing. Power was restored at 1:05 a. m. today in time to roll the presses.

At Norfolk, the tug Indian towed five barges sank in the James River. One crewman died, three are missing.

The hurricane blacked out power service along the eastern shore from the Virginia Capes to southern Delaware, and for scattered sections around Baltimore and central Maryland. Floods in Maryland made scores homeless.

Everywhere Hazel went, down went trees and power lines.

The storm tore loose from its reinforced moorings the historic U. S. Naval Academy training ship, the Reina Mercedes, and dragged it out in the Severn River with more than 50 aboard. The men stayed aboard, they were safer there than ashore.

Church Of Christ To Hold Services At Farm Bureau

The regular services of the Church of Christ will be conducted Sunday in the Farm Bureau Building, 159 E. Main St. The sermon topic announced for the morning worship is "Offended In Christ."

Charles Cochran says: "Jesus said, 'Blessed is he, who-soever shall not be offended in me' (Mt. 11:6). He knew that many would be offended because of Him and depart from following in His way. We may suggest various reasons why some were offended in Him.

"Some became offended because of the conditions surrounding His earthly life. The community in which he lived (John 1:46), His poverty (Mt. 13:55), His schooling (Jno. 7:15), and His family (Mt. 13:55-56) were all objects of scorn and offense. Nathaniel's statement, 'Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?' (John 1:46) is a summary of their attitude.

"Some took offense at what Jesus did. He ate with publicans and sinners (Mt. 9:10-13); He permitted a sinful woman to touch him (Luk. 7:39); and He healed on the Sabbath day (Jno. 5:18).

"Some were offended because of what Christ said. He said that God was His Father (John 5:18); 'Except ye eat of the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you' (John 6:53-61); 'If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death' (John 8:51); and He said that he would destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days (Mt. 26:61).

Lutherans Honor Brotherhood Day At Sunday Service

Congregational singing at the early service will be led by the senior choir. At the late service, the youth choir will render the anthem, "Through the Darkness", by Rossini.

Sunday School will follow the early service at 9:30 a. m. The adult discussion group will meet for the second time at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in the pastor's study. It is not too late to enter the class and members of the congregation are invited to attend.

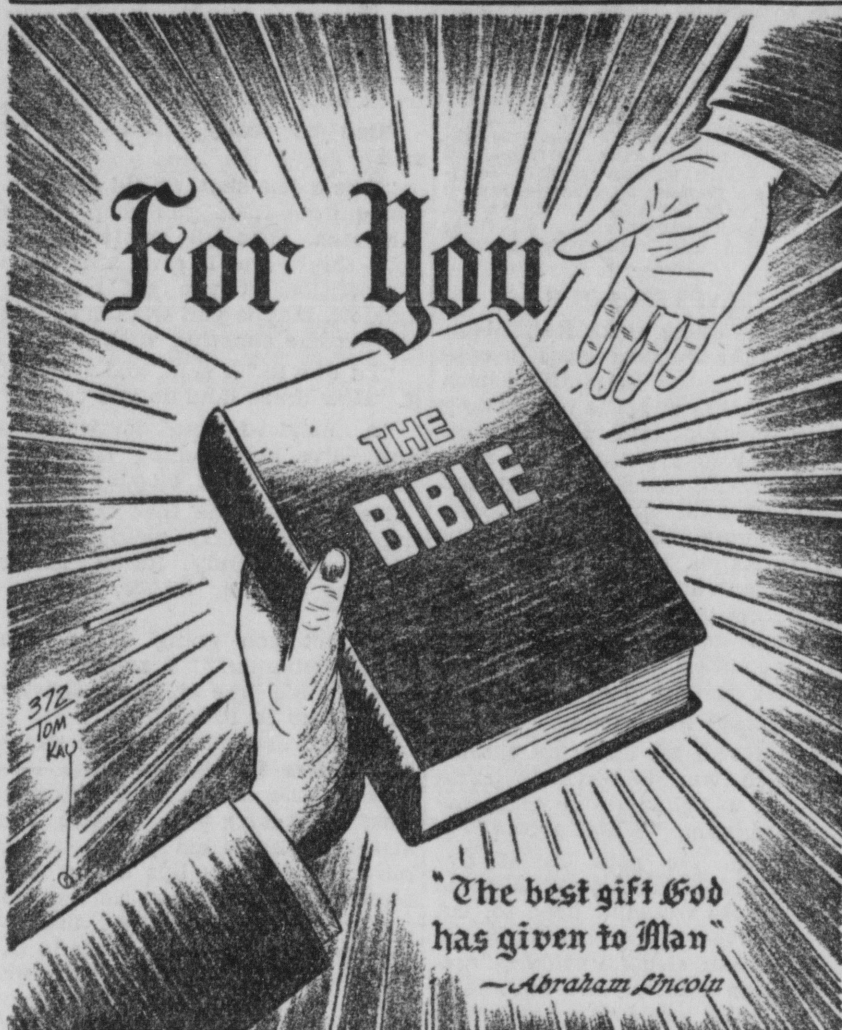

This Sunday is "Brotherhood Sunday" throughout the American Lutheran church. The members of the Brotherhood will sit together at the second service. The invitation is extended to all the men of the church to unite with their fellow members in this organization.

At a Brotherhood meeting, the "Little Pumpkin Show" sale of vegetables, canned goods, baked goods etc. netted $80 for the organization. The team headed by John Eitel won with 5,744 points over the team of W. G. Koch which had 2,606 points. At the Dec. 2 meeting, the losing team will entertain the winning team.

At 7 p. m. Sunday, the junior Luther League will have their regular meeting at the parish house. Brent Bell and John Troutman will give the devotion and the refreshments will be served by Larry Mallett, Dale Wilkinson and Bill Purcell.

The youth choir will rehearse on Tuesday at 7 p. m. but the children's choir and the senior choir will not rehearse next week due to the Pumpkin Show.

Bible Words To Live By

JOHN 9:10—"I am the door; by Me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture."

Real religion is rhythmical. It is not a question of going in or going out; it is both. On the one hand, it is adoration and worship; on the other it is achievement and service—in other words, a perfect balance.

I feel the rhythm of life on all sides of me. The tides ebb and flow, day succeeds the night, winter balances summer and spring is the opposite of fall. In history nations rise and fall. The health of my own body is the result of both exercise and rest. Sadness in my life is balanced by my times of happiness. Life is creative, when it is balanced and rhythmical.

Jesus went out into the wilderness to pray; I shall go into the House of God to worship. My Master came to the market place to heal and teach. I shall go out into life to serve. Give me, O God, the secret of Mary and the service of Martha!

The Rev. M. Rudolph Miller First Presbyterian Church East Liverpool, Ohio

JOHN 14:27—"Peace I leave with you, My peace I give unto you."

There came to my study a few years ago an all American football player who said, "I want to get right with God. I am not satisfied." In his heart and mind was confusion, frustration, turmoil and a deep sense of his need of God. Truly this young man was a picture of life devoid of peace, serenity and spiritual happiness.

After speaking with him about his condition and how he might be placed in the proper relation to God, I referred to the peace that is implanted in one's heart as a result of true repentance and acceptance of Christ as Savior and Lord. How thrilling it was to share with him in prayer as he poured out his heart to God and humbly accepted Jesus and became a recipient of His peace.

Layman's Sunday To Be Observed By Presbyterians

"Christ, The Hope Of The World," is the theme of the worship service at 10:30 a. m. in the Presbyterian Church.

Sunday is Layman's Day in the Presbyterian Church and in at least 20 other Protestant denominations. For thousands of laymen in every part of the United States, this day will be one of recognition and decisions; recognition by congregations of the layman's growing interest in the church and decisions by more of the laymen to do more personally for their church.

"The true nature of the church is 'the People of God'. All Christians are ministers, in that they are the Church's representatives, no matter when or where.

"It is often thought that the clergy are the ones who are obliged to walk worthily of their Christian calling wherever they may be, — that from the laity a lower standard is tolerated or even expected! This is poor reasoning.

"God lays the demand for total commitment to Him on clergy and laity alike. The ministry of the laymen of the Church should be a nothing less than their total commitment of time, ideals, and possessions as their equipment for doing their full part in building the Kingdom of God on earth while they have their health.

"The time has come for the laymen of the church to make their ministry for Christ explicitly, visible and active. The real battles of the Christian faith today are being fought in factories, shops, offices and farms; in political parties and government agencies; in countless homes; in press, radio, television; in the relationship of nations.

"Many say that the church should 'go into these spheres.' But the fact is, the church is already in, in its laymen.

In the Presbyterian church, the laymen will have charge of important parts of the worship: Milton Patterson will read the Scripture. Hal Spencer will offer the prayer. Wes Edstrom will direct the responsive reading.

Don Meyers will sing the solo, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountains Are the Feet of Him That Bringeth Good Tidings of Peace."

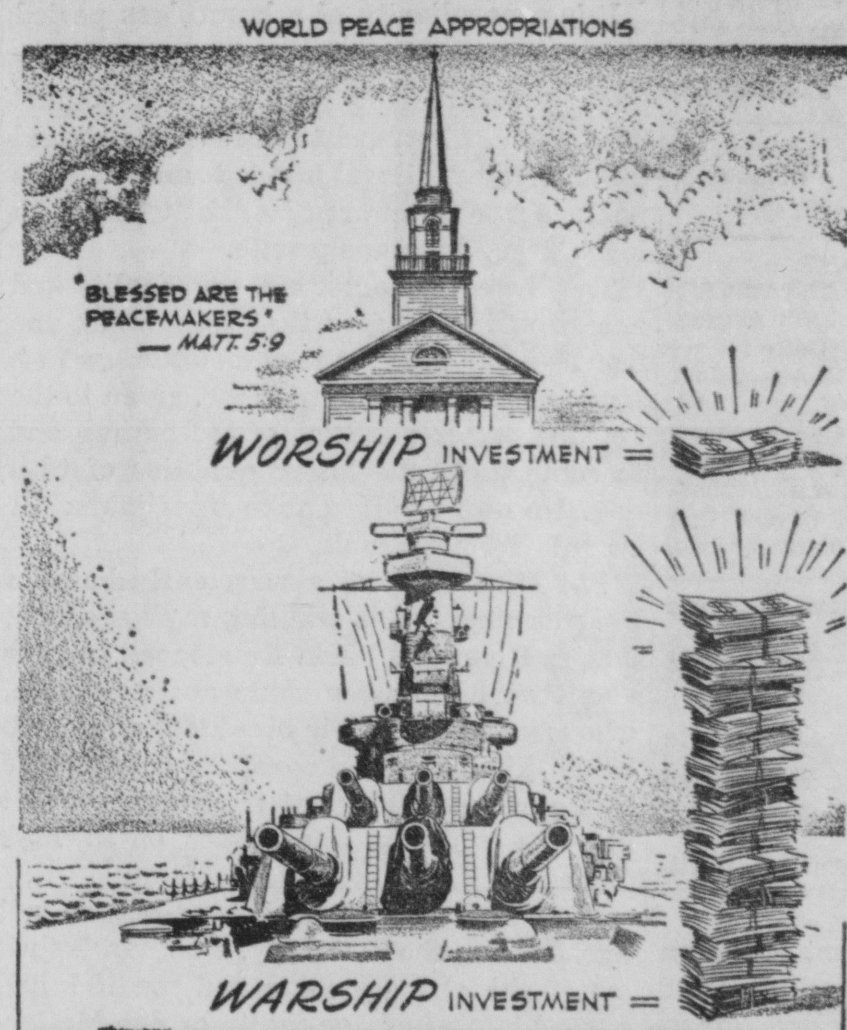

The sermon will develop the theme of the 13th chapter of St. Matthew; Christ's parables of the Kingdom. It is "like the sower that went forth to sow.

"Men receive the benefits of God's loving providence in accordance with their ability and willingness to receive. We are not deceived. God knows who is sincere and who is unworthy.

"But whether the Kingdom is found by accident or by long and diligent search, it is a priceless treasure; and to enter the Kingdom, no cost is too great."

In the evening the Westminster Fellowship will hold a recital party at the pastor's home.

Women delegates of the church will attend the district meeting of Columbus Presbyterian, which convenes at the Presbyterian Church in Bremen, 9:30 a. m. Wednesday.

"Trust in the Lord with all thine heart; and lean not unto thine own understanding. In all thy ways acknowledge Him, and He shall direct thy paths." Proverbs 3:5-6.

"Withhold not good from them to whom it is due. . . say not unto thy neighbor, Go and come again and tomorrow I will give; when thou hast it by thee." Proverbs 3:27-28.

Church Of Christ To Hold Services At Farm Bureau

The regular services of the Church of Christ will be conducted Sunday in the Farm Bureau Building, 159 E. Main St. The sermon topic announced for the morning worship is "Offended In Christ."

Charles Cochran says: "Jesus said, 'Blessed is he, who-soever shall not be offended in me' (Mt. 11:6). He knew that many would be offended because of Him and depart from following in His way. We may suggest various reasons why some were offended in Him."

"Some became offended because of the conditions surrounding His earthly life. The community in which he lived (John 1:46). His poverty (Mt. 13:55). His schooling (Jno. 7:15). and His family (Mt. 13:55-56) were all objects of scorn and offense. Nathaniel's statement, 'Can there any good thing come out of Nazareth?' (John 1:46) is a summary of their attitude."

"Some took offense at what Jesus did. He ate with publicans and sinners (Mt. 9:10-13); He permitted a sinful woman to touch him (Luk. 7:39); and He healed on the Sabbath day (Jno. 5:18)."

Some were offended because of what Christ said. He said that God was His Father (John 5:18); 'Except ye at of the flesh of the Son of man, and drink his blood, ye have no life in you' (John 6:53-61); 'If a man keep my saying, he shall never see death' (John 8:51); and He said that he would destroy the temple and rebuild it in three days (Mt. 26:61)."

"Some today are offended at Christ because of what they think he has taught. The inconsistencies of denominationalism has driven many into infidelity because they have attributed their teachings to Christ and the Bible. The man-made doctrine of election and predestination helped to drive Robert Ingersoll into infidelity."

Lutherans Honor Brotherhood Day At Sunday Service

The 8:30 and 10:45 a. m. worship services in Trinity Lutheran church this week will be conducted by the Rev. Carl G. Zehner. As a theme for his meditation, the Rev. Mr. Zehner has selected, "What Is God Doing?" based on Ps. 42:3.

Congregational singing at the early service will be led by the senior choir. At the late service, the youth choir will render the anthem, "Through the Darkness," by Rossini.

Sunday School will follow the early service at 9:30 a. m. The adult discussion group will meet for the second time at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in the pastor's study. It is not too late to enter the class and members of the congregation are invited to attend.

This Sunday is "Brotherhood Sunday" throughout the American Lutheran church. The members of the Brotherhood will sit together at the second service. The invitation is extended to all the men of the church to unite with their fellow members in this organization.

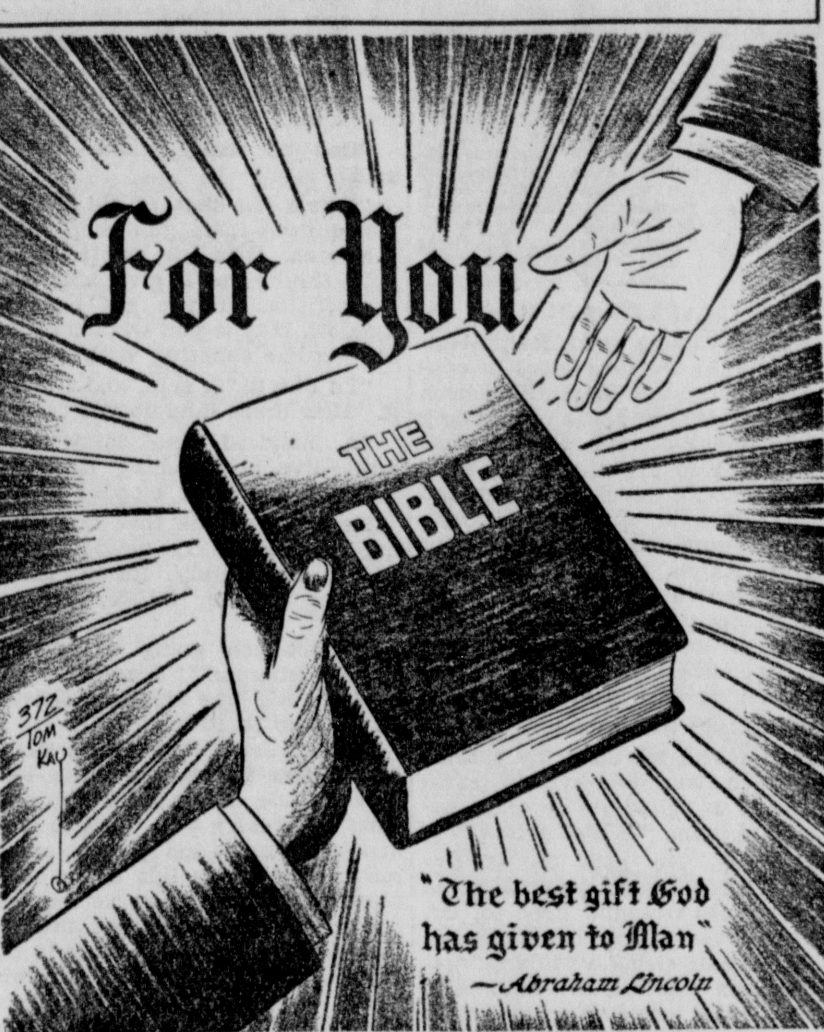

At a Brotherhood meeting, the "Little Pumpkin Show" sale of vegetables, canned goods, baked goods etc. netted $80 for the organization. The team headed by John Eitel won with 5,744 points over the team of W. G. Koch which had 2,606 points. At the Dec. 2 meeting, the losing team will entertain the winning team.

At 7 p. m. Sunday, the junior Luther League will have their regular meeting at the parish house. Brent Bell and John Troutman will give the devotion and the refreshments will be served by Larry Mallett, Dale Wilkinson and Bill Purcell.

At 7:30 p. m. Tuesday, the Sunday school board will meet in the pastor's study.

The youth choir will rehearse on Tuesday at 7 p. m. but the children's choir and the senior choir will not rehearse next week due to the Pumpkin Show.

Bible Words To Live By

JOHN 9:10—"I am the door; by Me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out, and find pasture."

Real religion is rhythmical. It is not a question of going in or going out; it is both. On the one hand, it is adoration and worship; on the other it is achievement and service—in other words, a perfect balance.

I feel the rhythm of life on all sides of me. The tides ebb and flow, day succeeds the night, winter balances summer and spring is the opposite of fall. In history nations rise and fall. The health of my own body is the result of both exercise and rest. Sadness in my life is balanced by my times of happiness. Life is creative, when it is balanced and rhythmical.

Jesus went out into the wilderness to pray; I shall go into the House of God to worship. My Master came to the market place to heal and teach. I shall go out into life to serve. Give me, O God, the secret of Mary and the service of Martha!

The Rev. M. Rudolph Miller
First Presbyterian Church
East Liverpool, Ohio

JOHN 14:27—"Peace I leave with you. My peace I give unto you."

There came to my study a few years ago an all American football player who said, "I want to get right with God. I am not satisfied." In his heart and mind was confusion, frustration, turmoil and a deep sense of his need of God. Truly this young man was a picture of life devoid of peace, serenity and spiritual happiness.

After speaking with him about his condition and how he might be placed in the proper relation to God, I referred to the peace that is implanted in one's heart as a result of true repentance and acceptance of Christ as Savior and Lord. How thrilling it was to share with him in prayer as he poured out his heart to God and humbly accepted Jesus and became a recipient of His peace.

NOT POLITICS

THERE IS A great deal to substantiate the assertion of Secretary Ezra Benson of the Department of Agriculture that he does not make decisions on the basis of political pressure.

Benson referred to his recent decision not to clamp controls on acres diverted from major crops. This so-called cross-compliance device was disturbing to farmers and Republican candidates up for re-election urged its cancellation. But Benson says he made his decision solely on the basis of drought damage.

As for lower price supports on small grain crops such as sorghums, soybeans, flaxseed, oats, rye and barley, Benson says the support level for 1955, too, will depend on drought damage.

Benson took the brunt of flexible supports when they were unpopular in Congress and drove them through, largely by the weight of his arguments. He is battling for a price pattern that will discourage marginal overproduction so that stable markets can be rebuilt.

In relation to wheat, a $2.06 farm price for 1955 has been set. If marginal production outside the wheat belt is discouraged the surplus, of which 400,000,000 bushels has been "segregated," will be lessened and the support price for the wheat belt will go higher.

Benson has a herculean problem in solving the farm problem because the situation has been undermined by keeping high price supports for overproduced crops in effect too long.

TAMED TRIO

WITH THE AGREEMENT on Trieste the free world can now count up to three the number of erstwhile powder kegs it has managed to de-fuse in recent months.

Amicable division of the Adriatic port between Italy and Yugoslavia caps prior Western successes in alleviating tensions over Iran and Egypt. Each settlement has not only been noteworthy in its own right, but more significantly, has paved the way toward greater anti-communist cohesion.

The Trieste treaty besides rubbing out an aggravated sore spot brings Yugoslavia into closer concert with NATO and prepares for the possibility of Italy's joining Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia in the Balkan alliance. Solution of the Iranian oil riddle promises early economic stabilization of that vulnerable southern Soviet neighbor, while Britain's final acquiescence over Suez points the way to an end of hostilities which have kept the critical Middle East continuously stirred up.

Among contracts easily broken are marriage contracts and those made by the Kremlin.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

It is a peculiarity of a humorless period that Defense Secretary Charles Wilson's analogy, comparing bird dogs to kennel dogs, should be used to create a political hullabaloo by literal-minded and witless persons who do not realize that to one who loves dogs, dogs are people.

They have character and personality and are so understanding that sometimes one wonders whether long association with man has not, in some manner, given to the dog the better qualities of the human and to some men, the lower qualities of the dog. No dog would smoke marijuana or voluntarily get drunk.

The other day, at a very early hour in the morning, I was walking my keeshond, Joe, in Riverside Park. He stopped to gaze upon two humans, a male and a female, who were having their breakfast on a park bench. The breakfast consisted of one large bottle of what, even at a distance, smelt like raw whiskey. Joe passed on in high disdain.

Joe's real name is Walsdaag but we call him Joe for short. A lady, who can lash it out if she chooses to, asked me if I had named him after Joe Stalin or Joe McCarthy. I told her that as he had come to me during the famed Mundt hearings, I called him Joe for the Senator. She said that the Senator deserved to be named after a dog.

Somehow this woman did not understand that to name a dog after a man is a compliment to the man. For dogs are faithful, loyal, sensitive to errors on their part, hopeful that all will go well with those they love. They never stab a friend in the back and if ever I have known anyone to bite the hand that fed him, it was a human. And among those humans are some highly placed.

For instance, I would not vote for a certain Senator, not because he and I disagree, but because secretly we do agree. He says it the other way in public because he has no courage. Dogs are not like that.

My old dog, Brownie, who died of a cancer, fought to the last painful moment not to disgrace herself in the house. Brownie was a philosopher and spent hours ruminating upon the foibles of the human race. She always ended her deep thinking with a profound sigh and generally turned over, at the end of it, and went to sleep, as though to say that she had given man all the time she could and had come up with nothing.

Charles Wilson goes hunting and he therefore knows the best qualities of good dogs. There are, of course, bad dogs as there are bad humans; there are even stupid dogs, but I have encountered few of them among the many I know. Dogs are psychologists and know those who abuse them or hate them, particularly a mong humans.

It is remarkable to note how they take cover when a dog-hating cop comes along to give tickets to those who have allowed their animals to run in the grass for a few minutes off the leash. One day, my dog friends will hold a convention and pass a resolution against that cop. Alas! They will fail in their efforts, for they have no votes. Among humans, even dopes have votes.

Infertility May Be Caused by Cervicitis

By HERMAN N. BUNGESEN, M.D.

INABILITY to have children often leads to much unhappiness. There are many reasons why infertility, or inability to have children, occurs. Not uncommonly, the difficulty is due to a condition known as cervicitis, or inflammation of the neck of the womb. When this inflammation is cleared up, the chances of becoming pregnant are greatly increased, regardless of the germs which are producing the trouble.

Results of Research
It has been found in laboratory experiments that cultures of almost any germ will kill the sperm within an hour. A careful study has been made by a group of physicians which shows that it is the number of germs present in the cervix which determines whether or not there will be interference with fertility.

These studies were carried out on a group of 55 women that were treated with one of the antibiotic drugs known as terramycin. Not only did this treatment eliminate many of the germs, but it also increased the time of survival of the spermatozoa in 42 of the patients. Of the 55 women treated, 18 became pregnant.

Many Causes

It is possible that, in many cases, infertility may be due to some disturbance of the glands of internal secretion. In some cases, even after careful study, no specific cause can be found. In other instances, there may be some psychologic cause. Thus, it is not unusual, after parents have adopted an infant, for pregnancy to occur at a later date.

In any event, in each case where pregnancy does not occur, a careful study of both man and woman is necessary before the proper treatment can be decided upon.

SYNOPSIS

Jim Bennett, noted sleuth of Cleveland, Ohio, accompanies his secretary, Miss Sandy Hollis, to her family home in rural Ohio, for a week-end of pheasant shooting. He is received well by Sandy's parents, and rugged Rex Blahop, their farm-hand, regales him with tales of "shootin' days" in the old west. Jim also meets Sandy's war-vet brother, Ralph. He had recently broken his engagement to handsome, spirited Ellen Kirkland, in favor of doctile Eileen Fortune. Everyone, including her father, Jake Fortune, had expected Ellen to marry Earl Seltzman, Jake's partner in a cattle-buying business. Later at a gathering in the Hollis home, Bennett meets all these people. Fun and fellowship prevail.

CHAPTER FOUR

IN THE living room Ralph Hollis and Jake Fortune were in conversation by the fireplace. Eileen had left Ralph and was now sitting beside Earl Seltzman. He was talking to her in low tones, his head bent forward, his eyes bright and intense behind his glasses. She was listening, but I saw her gaze dart to Ralph, who very carefully avoided looking at her. Mrs. Hollis was sitting comfortably in a rocking chair on the far side of the fireplace with a darning needle and a basket of heavy wool socks.

We passed the drinks. Homer had sat down by a table on which was a stack of farm journals. I pulled up a chair beside him, said, "Where's Rex?"

"In bed. He gets up at five o'clock in the morning, winter and summer. He wouldn't need to, but he still lives in the old days, before we had electric milking machines and tractors and automatic feeders." He smiled his shy smile. "Of course, we still have to see that the right buttons are pushed."

"Oh, sure," I said, laughing. "You farmers certainly have it easy."

He smiled, more with his eyes than his mouth, and sipped at his whisky.

"I like Rex," I said.

"He's one of the family," Homer said. "He won't work for anyone else. This place belonged to him."

"Really cracks the whip, does he?" Homer's eyes glistened with amusement. "Maybe you need it. I remember when you were a little girl your mother could never get you to make your bed."

"I have a terrible time with her," I said. "I'm thinking about getting a new girl—a blonde, this time."

"Now, listen—," Sandy began, and then she gazed out of the window. "Oh, fun. More company."

The lights of a car were streaking up the lane. They disappeared and we heard the rattle of stone as the car braked to what must have been a skidding stop.

"That's Judy," Sandy said. "Nobody else in the world drives like that."

The room was suddenly quiet, and the piano melody from the console was soft and bell-clear. Even Earl Seltzman stopped his low monologue, and both he and Eileen Fortune looked toward the archway leading to the front hall. Ralph Hollis and Jake Fortune turned expectantly from the fireplace, and Mrs. Hollis stopped her gentle rocking. Homer pulled stiffly on his pipe.

Sandy moved out into the hall. The front door opened and closed, there were voices of greeting and a woman's quick laughter. Sandy returned to the living room with an arm around a slender black-haired girl, who was murmuring in protest, "But you have guests. . . ."

"Nonsense, Judy," Sandy said. "I'm glad you came." The two of them stopped and faced the room. I got to my feet, as did Homer Hollis, who said quietly, "Good evening, Judy."

news behind the news

By Ray Tucker

Editor's Note: Every Saturday, Mr. Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Why is President Eisenhower so coy about campaigning actively for Republican candidates for Congress?" inquires T. L., of Lima, Ohio, and many other readers. "Since he is a Republican President, and since we have a recognized two-party system, doesn't he feel that he has a responsibility in this respect?"

Answer: For one thing, President Eisenhower has a deeper feeling for the dignity of his office than had his predecessors, who were professional politicians long before they entered the White House. Only slowly, and also reluctantly, is he beginning to recognize and understand the realities of partisan politics.

ADVICE—His close advisers, especially Sherman Adams, advance personal and political reasons against too much presidential participation. Fearing the election of a Democratic Congress, they tell like that such an event will be interpreted as a repudiation of his broad policies, if he intervenes directly and actively. They counsel only two nationwide, television hookups at the most.

The politicians, including National Chairman Hall, Speaker Martin and Vice-President Nixon, want him to take to the stump. They agree that he should not make one-night hops and stands, or kiss babies, shake hands and boost individual nominees. But they do feel that, in a high-toned and high-principled way, he should come to the aid of the party.

DECISION—He will make a split decision, I am told. Although he will make only three partisan addresses at the most, by radio and television, he will express his sincere desire and need for the election of a sympathetic body of legislators, meaning a Republican majority.

"Do you agree," asks L. G., of Cheyenne, Wyo., "with Democratic National Chairman Mitchell's charge that Vice-President Nixon, Speaker Martin and other Republican campaigners are making "undignified" efforts in their speechmaking?"

Answer: Allowing for the natural and expected exaggeration in all partisan battles, I do not agree. I think the voters are intelligent enough to separate the wheat from the chaff.

TRUMAN—Moreover, in view of Harry S. Truman's "Whistle Stop" behavior and language in 1948 and 1952, I hardly think that Chairman Mitchell has any reason for complaint. Truman, in my opinion, hit a new low in modern times with his personal, partisan and prejudiced philippics.

However, Mitchell's criticism is a healthy and welcome development. In my opinion, he expresses the viewpoint of the Adlai E. Stevenson faction. The 1952 nominee did not stoop to wild and personal charges; he sought the Presidency in a fine and clean way, though he has got a bit rough of late.

Anyway, why be so naive as to look for accuracy or logic or utter fairness in the foolish, election-time season, I gave up such dreams long ago.

"Newspaper dispatches from abroad and editorials keep saying that Malenkov is far smarter than Stalin," writes G. H., of Charleston, S. C. "What do they mean by that?"

Answer: I think they mean that the new and younger men in the Kremlin are more subtle, more flexible and more responsive than Stalin, on both the domestic and foreign fronts. Stalin was a medieval figure, whereas his successors are modernists. Malenkov, for instance, has launched a peace movement to offset our attempted encirclement of Russia. He urges international control of atomic weapons, reunification of Germany, general "coexistence" with the West.

He backs up these proposals with specific programs, and he has impressed certain politicians in Britain, France, Germany, and Italy. He has tried to make life more comfortable for the Russians. He is dangerous because he is a diplomat who is profiting from Stalin's mistakes.

NOT POLITICS

THERE IS A great deal to substantiate the assertion of Secretary Ezra Benson of the Department of Agriculture that he does not make decisions on the basis of political pressure.

Benson referred to his recent decision not to clamp controls on acres diverted from major crops. This so-called cross-compliance device was disturbing to farmers and Republican candidates up for reelection urged its cancellation. But Benson says he made his decision solely on the basis of drought damage.

As for lower price supports on small grain crops such as sorghums, soybeans, flaxseed, oats, rye and barley, Benson says the support level for 1955, too, will depend on drought damage.

Benson took the brunt of flexible supports when they were unpopular in Congress and drove them through, largely by the weight of his arguments. He is battling for a price pattern that will discourage marginal overproduction so that stable markets can be rebuilt.

In relation to wheat, a $2.06 farm price for 1955 has been set. If marginal production outside the wheat belt is discouraged the surplus, of which 400,000,000 bushels has been "segregated," will be lessened and the support price for the wheat belt will go higher.

Benson has a herculean problem in solving the farm problem because the situation has been undermined by keeping high price supports for overproduced crops in effect too long.

TAMED TRIO

WITH THE AGREEMENT on Trieste the free world can now count up to three the number of erstwhile powder kegs it has managed to de-fuse in recent months.

Amicable division of the Adriatic port between Italy and Yugoslavia caps prior Western successes in alleviating tensions over Iran and Egypt. Each settlement has not only been noteworthy in its own right, but more significantly, has paved the way toward greater anti-communist cohesion.

The Trieste treaty besides rubbing out an aggravated sore spot brings Yugoslavia into closer concert with NATO and prepares for the possibility of Italy's joining Greece, Turkey and Yugoslavia in the Balkan alliance. Solution of the Iranian oil muddle promises early economic stabilization of that vulnerable southern Soviet neighbor, while Britain's final acquiescence over Suez points the way to an end of hostilities which have kept the critical Middle East continuously stirred up.

Among contracts easily broken are marriage contracts and those made by the Kremlin.

These Days

It is a peculiarity of a humorless period that Defense Secretary Charles Wilson's analogy, comparing bird dogs to kennel dogs, should be used to create a political hullabaloo by literal-minded and witless persons who do not realize that to one who loves dogs, dogs are people.

They have character and personality and are so understanding that sometimes one wonders whether long association with man has not, in some manner, given to the dog the better qualities of the human and to some men, the lower qualities of the dog. "I'd like to," I said, and I meant it. "How much land do you farm?"

"A hundred and forty acres now. I've been selling land, and going in more for blooded stock."

He also told me that the morning hunting party would consist of himself, Sandy, Ralph, Eileen Fortune and her father, and myself.

"Aren't you going to invite young Seltzman?" I asked. He lit his pipe and said shortly, "That's up to Ralph."

I gazed around the room. Sandy had joined Ralph and Jake Fortune at the fireplace. Looking at Earl Seltzman's pale, intense face, at the glitter of his glasses, at the movement of his lips as he muttered into Eileen's ear, as they sat on the divan, I thought that he was acting very badly, here in the home of Ralph Hollis, who was going to marry the girl beside him. I wondered why he had come, and I thought, Forget her, son, and buck up. The best man won and all that and stop trying to talk her out of it. She's made up her mind and you'd better find a new girl.

Sandy moved away from the fireplace to a phonograph console at the far end of the room. In a moment the soft piano magic of Frankie Carle filled the room. I settled back in my chair with a

the news

Editor's Note: Every Saturday, Mr. Tucker answers readers' questions of general interest on national and international policies and personalities. Questions may be sent to him at 7008 Hillcrest Place, Chevy Chase, Md.

WASHINGTON—"Why is President Eisenhower so coy about campaigning actively for Republican candidates for Congress?" inquires T. L., of Lima, Ohio, and many other readers. "Since he is a Republican President, and since we have a recognized two-party system, doesn't he feel that he has a responsibility in this respect?"

Answer: For one thing, President Eisenhower has a deeper feeling for the dignity of his office than had his predecessors, who were professional politicians long before they entered the White House. Only slowly, and also reluctantly, is he beginning to recognize and understand the realities of partisan politics.

ADVICE—His close advisers, especially Sherman Adams, advance personal and political reasons against too much presidential participation. Fearing the election of a Democratic Congress, they tell him that such an event will be interpreted as a repudiation of his broad policies, if he intervenes directly and actively. They counsel only two nationwide, television hookups at the most.

The politicians, including National Chairman Hall, Speaker Martin and Vice-President Nixon, want him to take to the stump. They agree that he should not make one-night hops and stands, or kiss babies, shake hands and boost individual nominees. But they do feel that, in a high-toned and high-principled way, he should come to the aid of the party.

DECISION—He will make a split decision, I am told. Although he will make only three partisan addresses at the most, by radio and television, he will express his sincere desire and need for the election of a sympathetic body of legislators, meaning a Republican majority.

"Do you agree," asks L. G., of Cheyenne, Wyo., "with Democratic National Chairman Mitchell's charge that Vice-President Nixon, Speaker Martin and other Republican campaigners are making 'undignified' efforts in their speechmaking?"

Answer: Allowing for the natural and expected exaggeration in all partisan battles, I do not agree. I think the voters are intelligent enough to separate the wheat from the chaff.

TRUMAN—Moreover, in view of Harry S. Truman's "Whistle Stop" behavior and language in 1948 and 1952, I hardly think that Chairman Mitchell has any reason for complaint. Truman, in my opinion, hit a new low in modern times with his personal, partisan and prejudiced philippics.

However, Mitchell's criticism is a healthy and welcome development. In my opinion, he expresses the viewpoint of the Adlai E. Stevenson faction. The 1952 nominee did not stoop to wild and personal charges; he sought the Presidency in a fine and clean way, though he has got a bit rough of late.

Anyway, why be so naive as to look for accuracy or logic or utter fairness in the foolish, election-time season, I gave up such dreams long ago.

"Newspaper dispatches from abroad and editorials keep saying that Malenkov is far smarter than Stalin," writes G. H., of Charleston, S. C., "What do they mean by that?"

Answer: I think they mean that the new and younger men in the Kremlin are more subtle, more flexible and more responsive than Stalin, on both the domestic and foreign fronts. Stalin was a medieval figure, whereas his successors are modernists.

Malenkov, for instance, has launched a peace movement to offset our attempted encirclement of Russia. He urges international control of atomic weapons, reunification of Germany, general "coexistence" with the West.

He backs up these proposals with specific programs, and he has impressed certain politicians in Britain, France, Germany, and Italy. He has tried to make life more comfortable for the Russians. He is dangerous because he is a diplomat who is profiting from Stalin's mistakes.

Business And Professional Women Hold Dinner Session

Major Bahls Is Guest Speaker

Major Roy Bahls of Lockbourne Air Force Base was guest speaker at a Public Affairs Dinner held in the Mecca Restaurant by the Business and Professional Women of Circleville.

Major Bahls, a member of the 323 Reconnaissance Strategic Air Squadron at the Lockbourne base, spoke on the tax dollar, as used by the Air Force.

The speaker took his listeners on a "scheduled flight" over the central United States, describing it as it was planned and carried out by the squadron members.

He started his address by describing and presenting a model of a B-47 jet airplane, the type used for the flight. He told his listeners the plane costs the government 2.5 million dollars and uses 2 1-2 gallons of gasoline per mile.

Main purpose of such a mission, according to Major Bahls, would be to photograph a target area, which later could be bombed in case of attack by an enemy air force.

The three main purposes of the squadron flights, according to the speaker, are to photograph results of bombings, and to photograph large areas of country for possible future bombing sites.

Cameras installed in the planes are capable of taking a picture of an area as large as Pickaway County. Photos also can be made on a larger scale of a small concentrated area, so that more details are visible.

An average eight-hour flight, according to Major Bahls, requires 16 hours of preparation and planning. Two hours of this time is spent in a final pre-flight check of the plane itself.

Major Bahls spoke of the air strip as the Main Street of the Lockbourne Air Base community. He stated that the cooperation of the people on "Main Streets" everywhere is needed to build up the communities, which form the backbone of the nation. The speaker stated that what happens to the tax dollar is of vital interest to the public citizen.

The main purpose of his address, he said, was to help show the average taxpayer why his money is so vitally needed as a measure for peace.

Major Bahls, a graduate of West Point Military Academy, has spent 16 years in service with the Air Force. He has been stationed at Lockbourne for the past two years, where he is a pilot instructor. He and his family reside in Columbus, where he is a member of the Toastmaster's Club of Hilltop.

George Hartman, Superintendent of city schools, gave a short address on the proposed school bond issue. Following his address, the club voted to go on record as being in favor of the proposal. The group also made plans to contribute toward an advertisement in The Circleville Herald to support the club's decision.

Mrs. Richard Jones presided at a business session. A report was made on a district meeting held in Greenfield. Miss Emma Tennant was welcomed as a new member of the club.

The members voted to send a donation of $100 in the name of the club to a national fund for a Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club home in Washington D. C.

Programs for the coming year were distributed by Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh. Workers were asked to volunteer for work at an information booth during the Pumpkin Show. The club also voted to contribute to a Christmas Decoration fund for the city.

Miss Jo Ann Brink presented a vocal solo of "My Calling," written by Miss Clara Southward, a club member.

Mrs. Lillian Avis and Mrs. Defenbaugh presented two duets, "Circleville," also written by Miss Southward, and "Nightfall," honoring her on her birthday anniversary. Mrs. Betty Goodman accompanied the singers.

Dutch Hollow Lutheran church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Loretta Mae Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barr of Amanda, and Rodney Emerson Neff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Neff of Orient. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. David Thomas.

Miss Barr chose a princess dress of cotton blue velvet for her wedding. The high V-neckline formed a low V in back with a self-fabric bow at the point. The long sleeves extended to points over her wrists.

Her accessories included a petite white feather hat and a single strand of pearls and matching earrings. She wore a crescent corsage of white button mums.

Miss Nancy Neff of Circleville served as bridesmaid. Her gown was of navy blue faille and she wore matching accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds. Her gold bracelet was a gift of the bride.

Mrs. Noble Barr of Circleville, aunt of the bride, served as hostess at the reception. The brides' table was centered with a traditional wedding cake flanked by tall white tapers in crystal holders. Yellow daisies formed a modernistic design from opposite corners of the table and entwined around the base of the cake.

Mrs. Barr received her guests in a navy crepe dress. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Neff, mother of the groom, chose a dress of grey flannel and accessories to match. She also wore a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mix together gelatine, 1/4 cup of the sugar and salt in top of double boiler. Beat together egg yolks and milk; add to gelatine mixture. Cook over boiling water, stirring constantly, until gelatine dissolves and mixture thickens, about 10 minutes. Remove from heat; add lemon rind; cool. Stir in sieved cottage cheese, lemon juice and vanilla. Chill, stirring occasionally, until mixture mounds slightly when dropped from a spoon. Beat egg whites until stiff, but not dry. Gradually add remaining 1/4 cup sugar and beat until very stiff. Fold into gelatine-cheese mixture with whipped cream. Turn into prepared pan; chill until firm.

(Family Size 5-6 servings)
Use 1/2 gelatine recipe but full amount crumb mixture in an 8-inch round pan or 9-inch pie plate.

First Methodist Women's Society Conducts Meeting

Mrs. William L. Cook conducted a short business session during a meeting of the Woman's Society of Christian Service of the First Methodist church.

The session was held in the church social rooms. Mrs. Paul Johnson led the devotions in keeping with the theme of the meeting, "Jesus Christ, The Way".

Mrs. Homer Reber, a visiting conference member, gave a short talk. A formal welcome was extended to Mrs. Charles Reed, wife of the new pastor.

Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh opened a social hour with a vocal solo. Mrs. Harry Smith, secretary of supply work for the Ohio conference, gave a detailed report of the fourth national assembly of the Methodist Woman's Society of the Christian Service, held in Milwaukee. The assembly was attended by 7,000 women.

Decorations for the event were made by Circle 1 and refreshments were served by Circle 2.

Miss Anderson Is Hostess To Church Class

Miss Sue Anderson of N. Pickaway St. entertained her Sunday School class of the Church of the Nazarene.

Devotional singing was led by Mrs. R. Dale Fruehling. Miss Beverly Allen, Miss Edith Cline, Miss Mary Lake and Miss Anderson presented a vocal number.

Harry Lee Jr. and Jack Lutz offered a duet, which was followed by prayer, led by Miss Louise Lake.

Scripture was read by Jack Lutz. A song was sung by Roger Koch,

Dutch Hollow Church Rites Unite Miss Barr, R. Neff

Dutch Hollow Lutheran church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Loretta Mae Barr, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barr of Amanda, and Rodney Emerson Neff, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Neff of Orient. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. David Thomas.

Miss Barr chose a princess dress of cotton blue velvet for her wedding. The high V-neckline formed a low V in back with a self-fabric bow at the point. The long sleeves extended to points over her wrists.

Her accessories included a petite white feather hat and a single strand of pearls and matching earrings. She wore a crescent corsage of white button mums.

Miss Nancy Neff of Circleville served as bridesmaid. Her gown was of navy blue faille and she wore matching accessories and a corsage of yellow rosebuds. Her gold bracelet was a gift of the bride.

Phillip Neff served his brother as best man. Prenuptial music, presented by Mrs. George Valentine, included a medley of "Because", "I Love You Truly" and "Al-ways".

Mrs. Noble Barr of Circleville, aunt of the bride, served as hostess at the reception. The brides' table was centered with a traditional wedding cake flanked by tall white tapers in crystal holders. Yellow daisies formed a modernistic design from opposite corners of the table and entwined around the base of the cake.

Mrs. Barr received her guests in a navy crepe dress. She wore matching accessories and a corsage of pink rosebuds.

Mrs. Neff, mother of the groom, chose a dress of grey flannel and accessories to match. She also wore a corsage of pink rosebuds.

The new Mrs. Neff is a graduate of Circleville High School and a member of the National Honor Society.

Mr. Neff, a graduate of Jackson Township High School, is a member of the National Honor Society and of Phi Kappa Gamma Fraternity of Bliss Business College of Columbus. He is employed in the offices of the Kroger Company in Columbus.

The newly-married couple is now at home at 919 1/2 South Court St., Circleville.

Guests at the reception included Mr. and Mrs. Walter Barr, Mr. and Mrs. Wendell Neff, Lee Barr, Miss Gladys Hulse, Glen and Dean Barr, Phillip Neff, Miss Nancy Neff, Mr. and Mrs. Noble Barr, Mrs. George Valentine and the Rev. David Thomas and daughter, Susan.

East Ringgold Ladies Conduct Society Meeting

The Ladies Aid Society of East Ringgold Evangelical United Brethren church held a regular meeting in the home of Mrs. Earl Peters.

Dollar Day was observed during the meeting, which was attended by 23 members. Scripture was read by Mrs. Harry Betz. Prayers were offered by The Rev. Fred Ketner, Mrs. Betz and Mrs. Lewis Drum.

A sick call committee reported 25 sick calls made and 31 cards sent during the past month. Flowers and food were distributed to 20 persons.

The meeting closed with a vocal solo by Mrs. John Peters and refreshments, served by the hostess. She was assisted by her sister, Miss Dorothy Barr, and her mother, Mrs. Melvin Barr.

Sugar Ray Plans Trying Comeback

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, one of the greatest boxers of all time, says he has the "urge" to fight again and hopes to make a comeback.

"It all depends on how I look in training," said Robinson who retired 22 months ago as undefeated middleweight champion.

"I feel good—I don't think I ever felt any better," said Ray yesterday. "I would like to become the first retired champion ever to regain a title, and I hope to get a shot at middleweight champion Bobo Olson if my training works out well."

"But if I can't regain the condition that I was once so proud of then I'll give the idea up."

Robinson, whose last fight was a 14th round TKO loss to light heavyweight champion Joe Maxim on June 25, 1952, said he would go to his training camp at Greenwood Lake Monday and take things easy for a month before he really began to train.

"I find I can't move in the ring with the same speed, dispatch and accuracy," said Robinson then.

"Now the coordination isn't there any more. I don't want to wait to have someone tell me I'm through."

Sugar Ray Plans Trying Comeback

NEW YORK (AP)—Sugar Ray Robinson, one of the greatest boxers of all time, says he has the "urge" to fight again and hopes to make a comeback.

"It all depends on how I look in training," said Robinson who retired 22 months ago as undefeated middleweight champion.

"I feel good—I don't think I ever felt any better," said Ray yesterday. "I would like to become the first retired champion ever to regain a title, and I hope to get a shot at middleweight champion Bobo Olson if my training works out well."

"But if I can't regain the condition that I was once so proud of then I'll give the idea up."

Robinson, who says he is 32 although the record books list him as 34, apparently has forgotten the statement he issued when he gave up his middleweight crown 22 months ago.

"I find I can't move in the ring with the same speed, dispatch and accuracy," said Robinson then.

"Now the coordination isn't there any more. I don't want to wait to have someone tell me I'm through."

Robinson, whose last fight was a 14th round TKO loss to light heavyweight champion Joe Maxim on June 25, 1952, said he would go to his training camp at Greenwood Lake Monday and take things easy for a month before he really began to train.

HILL ALSO kicked one extra point and missed one. He kicked off, punted and ran like a demon was chasing him. In all, Hill did almost everything except serve soft drinks after the game.

Some of the members of the Tigers did their usual good job. But it was clearly evident that blocking was very poor. On almost all of the fine runs by Hill and Quarterback Eddie Tomlinson there was no blocking at all.

A very disappointing crowd, which only filled two-thirds of the home stands, witnessed the homecoming game. And in a y

Leading Pro Passer Faces Cleveland '11'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Quarterback Jimmy Finks of the Pittsburgh Steelers, who has thrown more passes than any other National Football League back so far this season, will test Cleveland's aerial defense here tomorrow.

The Steelers' veteran, a defensive back in the first three seasons after he came up to the pros ranks from Tulsa, has completed 52 of 84 passes for 619 yards and four touchdowns.

The Browns defense against the Steelers' overhead offense has been juggled somewhat for tomorrow's game because safety man Ken Gorgall suffered a bruised knee in Cleveland's 31-7 victory over the Chicago Cardinals last Sunday.

Kenny Konz will take Gorgall's spot in the last outpost, while Don Paul plays the defensive halfback spot usually assigned to Konz.

Otherwise the Browns will be at full strength. Rookie Carlton Massey is ready to take a turn at defensive end. He has been sidelined with an ankle injury.

The Steelers' only defeat this season has been by a 24-22 score to the strong Philadelphia Eagles who trimmed the Browns 18-10.

6 Football Fans Killed In Crash

ST. CLOUD, Minn. (AP) — Six high school sophomores returning from a homecoming football game were killed last night when a passenger train smashed into their car, crumpling it "like an accordion."

The victims were identified as: Sharon Roder, Shirley Hinkemeyer, Janice Johnson and Nancy Minars, all students at St. Cloud Cathedral High School; William Ehli, Duluth, Minn., and Larry Stoltman, Ardcho, N. D. The two boys were students at St. John's High School in nearby Collegeville.

The youths, all between 15 and 16, had been spectators at the football game between De La Salle of Minneapolis and Cathedral.

Heavy Rains Curb Many Ohio Games

COLUMBUS (AP) — Heavy rains caused postponement of a host of Ohio high school football games last night.

About a dozen games were called off in the Youngstown area alone due to the storms. Most of the postponements were in east and east-central Ohio.

The Newark-Cambridge game was called off when several inches of water stood on the Cambridge field.

Athletics' Deal Buffeted By Uncertainties

Roy Mack Pondering Which Of Two Fat Offers To Accept

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Athletics' franchise today was in the position of a 54-year-old tree that had been buffeted by a major league hurricane—tottering before a gale out of Kansas City but not quite fully uprooted.

Roy Mack, executive vice president of the Athletics and "tree surgeon deluxe" in the drama, was bidding the few hours left to make up his mind whether he was prepared to sell out to Arnold Johnson, Chicago financier who wants to move the franchise to Kansas City, a move already approved by a meeting of American League owners.

Mack's alternative was to produce a financial shot in the arm, a cure that became more than a vague possibility yesterday when a band of 10 "last minute" men pledged sufficient cash to keep the club in Philadelphia.

Roy took the pledge under advisement and retired to his chambers to deliberate over the weekend, with his brother, Earle, and their father, Connie Mack Sr.—the other major factors in any deal—reportedly standing by for sudden action.

All of which left Johnson and Will Harridge, American League president—among others—slightly bothered and bewildered.

Johnson last night issued a "statement of position." Johnson said he was still under the impression he was on the inside track to buy the Philadelphia American League franchise and had the cash ready whenever Roy Mack made up his mind. In fact said Johnson, he had promised Roy a five-year contract for a front-office job with the transplanted A's at Kansas City, plus a share of stock in the club, and a job for Roy's son, Connie Mack III.

Harridge wasn't talking beyond his statement of 24 hours earlier that the league had approved the sale to Johnson and transfer to Kansas City. The league, said Harridge was just sitting and waiting.

But admittedly it went a little deeper into the Mack clan than just Roy's mind. The big hitch seemed to be the question of whether Roy could obtain from the 10 Philadelphia businessmen a promise to match Johnson's five-year plan.

The head of the minor leagues says any transfer of the Athletics' franchise to Kansas City "can't be consummated until the American Association and the Kansas City club claims are satisfied and the territory released."

And with the American League moving into the American Association territory, said George M. Trautman, the Association "might wind up as a seven-club league—unless the Kansas City franchise could be moved to a city not now in baseball." If the Association franchise is to go to another city, a decision will have to be made by Dec. 1, the deadline for initiating "territorial drafts."

Trautman said, "a major league club, to transfer to minor league territory, must get approval of its own league. Then it notifies the commissioner. The club then enters into negotiations with the league from which it seeks to oust a team, and with the ousted club."

Meanwhile the Columbus American Association team, the Red Birds, was the subject of negotiations yesterday by local business men and the St. Louis Cardinals. The local group, headed by Harold

Basilio Earns Chance At Welter Title

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Carmen Basilio, son of an onion farmer from nearby Canastota, stood out today as the only logical opponent for the winner of next Wednesday's welterweight title fight between champion Kid Gavilan and Johnny Saxton.

Carmen added unranked Allie Gronik of Detroit to his long list of victims here Friday night and came away with assurances of both the New York State Athletic Commission and the International Boxing Club that he would get Wednesday's winner in a championship chance.

Basilio was the old master with Gronik, a flailing, hard puncher figured as a 17-5 underdog in the match with the long-standing No. 1 contender. Both Gronik's eyes were cut and nearly closed.

The decision hardly could have been more one sided. Basilio won all 10 rounds on Judge Ted Sheil's card and nine on all the others. Judge Jack Kimball gave Gronik the third round. Referee Harry Kessler called the fourth even.

MEXICO'S Mario Llamas (above) pops into the net picture with sensational play in the Pan American tennis tournament in Mexico City. Llamas, member of the Mexican Davis Cup team, was a surprise conqueror of the U.S. champ, Vic Seixas, and then trimmed Art Larsen, another former U.S. champ. (International)

Cooper, wants to buy the Red Birds to give Columbus a home-owned club.

It has been rumored that if the Athletics go to Kansas City, the New York Yankees might shift the Kansas City franchise here, with the Cardinals transferring the Columbus franchise to Omaha of the Western League.

Cooper said, "We haven't even established that the Red Birds are for sale, but we don't want the club shifted to Omaha or Denver or any other spot."

The smallest man on the West Virginia University football roster this season is Jack Rabbits. He stands 5 feet 9 and weighs 162 pounds.

Less Than Half Of OSU Agriculture Students Born On Farm

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. Court St., Circleville. The office here is the link between district farmers and the College of Agriculture, Ohio State University.

Only 47 percent of the freshman enrolled in Ohio State University's College of Agriculture this fall are farm born and reared, John Mount, junior dean, announced. Twenty-six percent have no farm experience. Ten years ago, about two-thirds of the freshmen enrolling each year were farm-reared.

"We still have about the same number of farm boys enrolled even though farm population is declining," Mount added.

He said increasing enrollment of non-farm students reflects increasing demand for trained personnel in food processing, marketing and other agricultural industries.

Fifty-three more students enrolled in the College of Agriculture this fall than in 1953. Forty-three of these are young farmers enrolled in the new special non-degree study program. These men are farming, or plan to farm, and feel a need for additional agricultural training to meet demands of modern farming, the junior dean pointed out. The new program includes farm production and farm management courses.

Of this year's freshman class, 22 percent came from Franklin and Cuyahoga counties.

Ohio's 5 million bushel 1954 potato crop is one of the best in yield and quality in recent years, says Eugene Wittmeyer, Ohio State University Extension horticulturist. It is still less than half the 12 million bushels Ohioans eat each year, however.

Wittmeyer says now is a good time to buy potatoes for home storage. Potatoes stored in slatted crates or bins in a cool dark basement will keep until spring. For long storage, a 38 to 40 degree temperature is best, while slightly higher temperature is best for short storage periods. Relative humidity of 85 to 90 percent reduces shriveling.

Bulk of this fall's harvest will be good keeping varieties like Katahdin, Sebago, red-skinned Pontiacs, and Russet Rurals. Russet Rurals are used mainly for potato chips. A few growers will have less familiar varieties such as Kenbec, Cherokee, and White Rurals.

Wittmeyer attributes above average yield and the excellent quality of the 1954 crop to favorable weather and good cultivation.

Mailboxes Taken Just To Be Ornery

IRONTON (AP)—Gene Dillon, 23, quoted by police as saying that he and four companions uprooted and carted away 25 to 30 rural mailboxes "just to be ornery," is being held in the Lawrence County jail.

Dillon is part owner of a Chesapeake tavern where he was taken into custody. Sheriff Carl E. Rose said the other four were being sought. Officers quoted Dillon as saying he would be glad to return the boxes and apologize to the owners.

Red Rose PIG STARTER PELLETS

Rate of growth in large litters is often slowed by inadequate milk production of the sow. RED ROSE PIG STARTER PELLETS are designed to supplement the sow's milk so that when the pig's appetites exceed the milk supply, the litter will be accustomed to eating pelleted feed. This "early nutrition" supplies additional vitamins and antibiotics which permits the litter to be weaned earlier without the setbacks in growth which frequently occur at weaning time. The pigs grow more uniformly and reach market weights earlier.

Hammer Guilty Of Assault In Wife-Shooting

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—Frederick Hammer has been found guilty of assault with intent to kill his estranged wife, shipping heiress Andrea Luckenbach Hammer.

A jury returned the guilty verdict yesterday. Sentencing was postponed until Oct. 22.

Hammer also was convicted of simple assault in the shooting of Woodrow Long, Mrs. Hammer's horse trainer.

The shootings were in a stable at Delaware Park race track last June. Harry D. Walker of Logan, Ohio, a track valet, was a principal eyewitness to the shootings and testified at length during the hearing.

Hammer insisted throughout the trial that he was aiming his pistol at a horse he said needed to be destroyed.

Both Mrs. Hammer and Long recovered from their injuries.

Iowa Corn Comes In 27-Foot Box

COLUMBUS (AP)—Iowa's answer to Ohio Secretary of State Ted W. Brown's "tall corn" challenge arrived yesterday in a package nearly 27 feet long.

The paper-wrapped board bore a label: "To be opened by Mr. Syndhorst."

Melvin D. Syndhorst is the Iowa secretary of state who accepted Brown's challenge to beat 13-foot corn grown in Columbus.

The contest will be held at the university today before the Iowa-Ohio State football game.

Sokolsky's These Days

Joe and I discussed Charles Wilson this morning. The name was strange to him and he cocked his head to one side and then to the other and finally smiled. When I mentioned Walter Reuther, he gave a sharp yelp, as though to say that that fellow does not know one dog from the other. I tried to explain that I know nothing about this fellow Reuther's family life, but my guess would be there is a dog in it somewhere.

It is remarkable how low politicians will sink in a dull and lackluster campaign. They will even involve dogs in their meaningless controversies. All that Charles Wilson said was that a bird dog is a self-reliant animal and that he, Wilson, likes self-reliant people.

Ralph Waldo Emerson made much to do about self-reliance which used to be regarded as a noble quality and a particularly American one. Since when has it become an insult in this country to praise a human as self-reliant?

MAYSVILLE, Ky. (AP)—Miss Sallie Bullock is still waiting for the right man to come along today—her 103rd birthday.

She had had many offers of marriage but "I guess the one big love in my life is Maysville and Mason County." She was born in the county's Plumville section.

"I've gone places, but it always was good to come home," she said. "I must be getting old."

Ban On Horror Comics Pledged

CINCINNATI (AP)—A promise that no more horror and terror comic books would be published by companies working with him was made yesterday by Charles F. Murphy of New York, new "czar" of the comic book industry.

He said comic books would no longer show bloodshed, lust, gruesome crime and illicit sex relations. "Females are to be drawn realistically but are not to be exaggerated," he told wholesale distributors of magazines.

Before Hazel, though, it had been mighty dry hereabouts. The Rappahannock River, the city's only water source, had been falling since Oct. 1 and was at an emergency low.

U.S. Officials Fed Up With Korea Gripes

TOKYO (AP)—The United States government is fed up with Korean obstruction of American-financed economic and military programs for Korea and plans to bring the issue to a showdown in the next few weeks.

Constant Korean complaining and what the United States considers lack of ROK cooperation has gotten under the skins of top American leaders in Korea.

The United States has offered Korea a package economic-military deal to build up the country's armed forces and its economy—and has put it on a "take it or leave it basis."

The issues between the two nations are coming to a head over the ROK shutoff of Korean currency to the American military.

The United States needs this money to pay its 100,000 Korean employees, but it wants the money at a more reasonable rate than the current 180 hwan to $1.

Black market rate of the hwan runs to 600 to 800 to $1.

The Koreans refused to negotiate the issue and finally on Oct. 1 refused to advance any more Korean money to the U. S.

The U. S. military in Korea, rather than give in on the issue, may begin paying its employees in dollars or partly in dollars and partly in food.

The military money issue is only a part of the split.

Republicans Need 'Liberal' Views

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Sen. Flanders (R-Vt) says the Republican party needs a liberal viewpoint "tested and modified by true conservatism within the party" if it wants to remain in power.

"If it is thwarted by reactionaries, the days of Republican power are numbered—and rightly so," the senator told members of a men's club here.

"Let al. Republicans among us work for the strengthening of the liberal view of our party," he said.

"Unless we do, we will remain a minority party which will never draw to its support more than 40 per cent of the electorate."

Pickaway County farmers can obtain experienced advice and up-to-date literature on their farming problems at the County Extension Office located in the Post Office Building, S. ROUNDUP ural practices followed by growers.

Officials of the Ohio Agricultural Experiment Station are planning a beef cattle field day at the southeastern substation at Carpenter on October 26.

Visitors will see the second year's results of an experiment in crossing native type cows with standard beef breeds. Purpose of the project is to develop a type of beef cattle ideally suited to southeastern Ohio farms. Hereford, Angus, and Brahman bulls are being used in the crossing work. Their offspring will also be compared with purebred Herefords.

Other features on display at the substation field day will be different varieties of pasture and a project in winter grazing. Speakers will include E. W. Klotz, beef cattle specialist from the main station at Wooster, and R. R. Davis who is heading up the grazing experiments.

W. W. Brownfield, southeastern Ohio extension supervisor, has reported that the beef cattle research at the substation looks especially promising this year. Calves are heavier than last year and more nearly represent the results desired from breed crossing.

The beef cattle field day program will begin at 1:30 p. m. on the substation farm at Carpenter in Meigs County.
